Open to the public. Registration is not required.

Do you consider yourself a “performance voice” user?
You may be surprised that you ARE.

Teachers, coaches, lawyers, and broadcasters utilize their “performance” voices on a daily basis - which can cause significant strain on the body and vocal folds.

Attendees will learn:

- How to care, protect and celebrate your voice.
- Perspectives from the clinician, physician, teacher, performer, and director
- The importance of vocal health, especially those within professional and performance voice-related fields
- How to train your body and your voice for optimal performance
- Communication strategies and voice protection for mask users
